Hike Description:

Honey Run Highlands Park

Hike through rolling wooded hills, with tricky footings (rocks and roots) and grassy prairie trails. We will stop periodically at trail splits, so the group remains together.

We will then cross the road to the waterfall, continuing over to the Kokosing River. The hike ends at a gorgeous view of the 25-foot waterfall framed by sandstone cliffs and boulders, an ideal spot for a group photo.

There are Allegheny Mound Ants along the paths. In November, they slowdown in activity and could be hibernating if there is frost.

There is a porta potty in the parking lot and another one across the street at the waterfall parking lot.
